เรื่อง MY HOMETOWN

Directions : Read the story about Kathy's town. Find out what are places in her hometown?

My name is Kathy. I am 13 years old. I live with my family in a small town in England. My father, Mr. Atipong, is a doctor. He works in a hospital. He starts his work very early at 6.00 a.m. My mother is an English teacher. She teaches at the school where I study and the school is not far from my house. The city is very clean, beautiful, and quiet. I love reading very much. I often go to read books at the library with my mother on weekend. On Sunday, my parents and I go for praying at the church.

เรื่อง PHU KAM YAO

Directions : Read the passage about "Phu Kam yoa". Then, find out what the interesting places are there?

General - Virtually enveloped by mountains and valleys, Phayao is a peaceful province. Though with only modest facilities and conveniences, it is an enchanting community with delightful natural beauty and fascinating religious sites. Dating back to more than 900 years, it used to be an independent state with its own rulers before it became a part of the Lanna Thai kingdom in mid-14th century. Phayao is about 691 kilometres from Bangkok and covers an area of 6,335 square kilometres. Administrative, it is divided into the following districts: Muang, Chun, Chiang Kham, Chiang Muan, Dok Khamtai, Pong, Mae Chai, Phu Sang, and Phu Kam Yao.

Phu Kam Yoa

Attractions - With a far reaching history before its 34 years stretch as the second capital of the Lanna Kingdom, Phayao is considered one of the oldest settlements in Thailand. It may be less well known than Chiang Mai as a tourist destination on its own, but what makes Phayao fascinating is its strong association with the Tai ethnic culture the origins of Lanna people which can still be seen in the temple and museum architecture around the city area.

Transportations - There are songthae or minibus services running throughout the town. Fares range from 10 to 30 baht depending on the distance. Three wheeled taxis (tuk tuk) and motorcycle taxis are available and fares are to be negotiated beforehand. You can also get around the city leisurely by hired bicycle or motorcycle. There are bus services going between Phayao town and other districts and nearby provinces for the latter, air conditioned buses are also available. If you want to explore distant towns of Phayao at your own pace, you can rent a van, jeep or car at rental shops and some hotels and guesthouses.

เรื่อง TRAVELING IN PHAYAO

Directions : Read this passage.

Thai Lue Village : Chiang Kham district is home to many Thai Lue people, about 74 kilometres to the northeast of Phayao on Highway No. 1021. The Thai Lues originally were from the south of Yunnan in China and migrated to northern Thailand, particularly to Nan and Phayao, some 200 years ago.

Wat Nantaram: An interesting temple in Chiang Kham is Wat Nantaram, a Burmese-style site built entirely with teak. The woodworks on the windows, gables, corridors and other parts are beautifully chiseled in elaborate designs.

Doi Phu Nang National Park: This national park is 48 kilometers south of Amphoe Dok Khamtai along Highway No. 1251 and 4 kilometres along an access road. A variety of birds are found, especially peacocks which come to the park area for breeding from January to March. The park also has a scenic waterfall called Namtok Than Sawan. Camping in the park is possible.

Kwan Phayao: An extensively fresh water lake, Kwan Phayao is the largest fresh water fish habitat in the upper North which provides the livelihood of many of the local people. The surrounding scenery, particularly at dusk, is stunning. Along the banks are located food shops and recreation sites.

Ho Watanatham Nithat: Next to Wat Si Koam Kam is Ho Watanatham Nithat. The indigenous museum deals with the history and ancient relics of Phayao, including native culture and traditions and creativity. Open Wednesday-Sunday from nine in the morning to four in the afternoon.

Wat Phra That Chomthong: Wat Phra That Chomthong, can be reached by the 1.5 kilometers long uphill road. Surrounded by an arboretum, the temple offers a panoramic view of the town and the lake.
